

REAP-Canada has partnered with the Eco-Kalan Project in the Philippines to bring clean cooking stoves to the victims of Typhoon Haiyan

The main goal of the Eco-Kalan project is to improve the health, environment and economics of poor communities through improved biomass cooking stoves. The Eco-Kalan stove is designed to use appreciably less fuel than traditional kalans with reduced smoke. The Eco-Kalan project is now underway in the Negros Islands in the Philippines, and is bringing much needed relief to Typhoon Haiyan disaster areas.
